

Branka Vasiljevic, PhD

Head of Laboratory for Molecular Microbial Genetics and Ecology, Institute of Molecular Genetics and Genetic Engineering, University of Belgrade

Dr Branka Vasiljevic's research interests include molecular genetics, molecular biotechnology, microbial diversity and ecology. She used to teach Molecular Biology and Molecular Genetics (graduate, post-graduate and PhD studies) at University of Belgrade and University of Novi Sad.

She is a member of ASM – American Society for Microbiology, EAS – European Academy of Sciences, Serbian Genetic Society (President), Serbian Microbiology Society, Serbian Biological Society. She is a FEMS delegate since 2012. Dr Branka Vasiljevic has been a principal investigator of numerous national and international research projects. She also serves as reviewer in different scientific journals, as well as a reviewer for funding agencies.

Link to CV: <http://imgge.bg.ac.rs/index.php/en/branka-vasiljevic-en>